

Actual incident response in the storage facility

An incident response image

Actual incident response in the customer yard

Hazardous Material Safety Service (HMSS)

HMSS is an incident response service for HM storage facilities and container yard. The workers engaged in the facilities act as a specialist for HM handling.

However, they may not fully respond for the HM spill and fire.

The HM incident may have affected the facility workers and residents around the area. It might be a catastrophic incident.

Also the spill may trigger incompatible reaction. MDPC has specialists for HM incident and has special HM response equipment. MDPC has made a standby contract with storage facilities/container yard and the specialists provide not only the actual spill response service but also provide training to the storage facilities employees in times of peace.

